

February 23, 2021

New American Lobster Research Funding Opportunity Now Available

Sea Grant announces a new funding opportunity to support research on how the American Lobster and its fishery are being impacted by environmental change in the Gulf of Maine, Georges Bank, and southern New England is now available.

The program seeks applications from research teams and encourages research partnerships between state agencies, academia, and/or industry stakeholders that address life-history parameters, distribution and abundance, species interactions, and/or bait alternatives.

Sea Grant anticipates awarding between five to ten research projects totaling between $1 million and $2 million dollars in 2021. Projects must have a maximum duration of two years.

Read the full announcement

Image of a daily lobster catch overlaid with a red semi-transparent filter and the text "New American Lobster Research Funding Opportunity Now Available".

seagrants.noaa.gov

STAY CONNECTED

